

- For houses without footing under foundation walls, footings can be installed in concrete sections
- The span of the section under the wall varies depending on certain conditions
- The footings are poured and attached together by rebar dowels
- The footings can then be supported by Helical Piers
- This is common in houses with brick foundations walls